It was further ordered that upon release from imprisonment the defendant be placed on supervised release for 36 months under the standard conditions adopted by the court and the following additional conditions:

2. The defendant shall provide the probation office with access to any requested financial information.
3. The defendant shall consent to a warrantless search by a United States Probation Officer or, at the request of the probation officer, any other law enforcement officer, of the defendant's person and premises, including any vehicle, to determine compliance with the conditions of this judgment.
4. The defendant shall participate in a vocational training program as directed by the probation office.
5. The defendant shall cooperate in the collection of DNA as directed by the probation officer.

Thomas Jerome Boyd was released from custody on October 22, 2014, after serving a sentence in the state of Georgia, at which time the term of supervised release commenced.
